A Publication of David F. Fanning Numismatic Literature
www.fanningbooks.com

Welcome to the September issue of The Bookshelf, a fixed price offering of numismatic literature. The ANA has come and gone, and while we were unexpectedly unable to attend, there are exciting things happening in the numismatic literature world. I have recently been elected to the Board of Trustees of the Numismatic Bibliomania Society, an organization to which I hope you all belong (if not, ask me for info). We are cataloguing our third mail-bid auction, which closes on December 3. In the meantime, this issue of The Bookshelf includes 100 lots of numismatic literature, representing a variety of works. All books offered within are to be sold at the price indicated and are subject to prior sale. See the "Terms" section for information on postage. Thank you very much for your patronage.

A Rare German-Language Early American Almanac with Numismatic Content

- 407. Billmeyer, Michael [printer]. Der Hoch-Deutsche Americanische Calender, auf das Jahr 1790. Germantown, Pennsylvania: Billmeyer, (1789). 8vo., self-covered. First page with full-page woodcut. (40) pages. Spine worn, once bound, later stitching; corner folds, final leaf torn and missing top half. Good. $200
A very rare production, being an 18th-century American imprint published in a vernacular language other than English. Michael Billmeyer was the preeminent printer of Germantown, and his work is avidly collected today. Includes two pages of numismatic content, giving conversion rates between various coinages and the values of a number of different precious-metal coins. The torn final leaf does not affect the numismatic content. 18th-century American imprints are generally scarce (if not outright rare), and such imprints in languages other than English are very infrequently encountered. Billmeyer published other almanacs and Ready Reckoners that include content of interest to numismatists. The recognition of early American imprints of numismatic significance is still a field in its infancy. A charming and fascinating piece of historical Americana. Drake 10265. Evans 21890.

- 408. Bolender, M.H. 183rd Auction Sale of Rare Coins, Medals & Tokens, and Paper Money Featuring the Extensive Private Collection of United States Silver Dollars, with 183 Varieties before 1804, the Collection Formed by M.H. Bolender, and Other Fine Consignments. Freeport, Illinois, Feb. 23, 1952. 8vo., card covers. 108 pages; 1823 lots. Near fine. $40
Bolender's own collection of the dollars for which he wrote the standard attribution guide, which has only recently been surpassed. Important. Adams 183 (rated A overall, A+ for early silver, A for late silver and A- for patterns).

- 409. Bowers, Q. David. A Buyer's and Enthusiast's Guide to Flying Eagle and Indian Cents. Wolfeboro: Bowers and Merena, 1996. 8vo., card covers. 541, (2) pages. Near fine. $15
An extraordinarily thorough examination of these popular issues.

410. Brady, Michael [editor]. Nordic Gold: The Facts of a Record. Elizabeth Seeberg and Michael Brady, translators. Oslo: Norsk Numismatisk Forlag, 1989. 4to., pictorial boards. 31, (1) pages. Fine. $20

411. Breck, Samuel. Historical Sketch of Continental Paper Money. Reprint. Philadelphia: A.C. Kline, 1863. 8vo., modern green cloth; original wraps bound in. 33, (3) pages. Some folds. First published in The Transactions of the Historical and Literary Committee of the American Philosophical Society (1843), this is the 1863 reprint by A.C. Kline. A significant early work on the subject. Clain-Stefanelli 13292. Davis 135. Newman 87. Sigler 297.

British Act Prohibiting Counterfeiting Coppers

412. [British Government]. An Act to Prevent the Counterfeiting Any Copper Coin in This Realm Made, or to Be Made, Current by Proclamation, or Any Foreign Gold or Silver Coin; and to Prevent the Bringing into This Realm, or Uttering, Any Counterfeit Foreign Gold or Silver Coin. Anno Tricesimo Septimo, Georgius III. Regis. Cap. CXXVI. July 12, 1796. London: Printed by George Eyre and Andrew Strahan. Folio, self-covered and sewn. 8 pages, last blank, paginated (1897)–(1903). Disbound, lower spine ragged; repair to final leaf not affecting text. Good to very good. $200
A very important attempt on the part of the British government to address the problems arising from the proliferation of counterfeit coppers. Most previous anti-counterfeiting laws had not applied to copper coins, and the current Act sought to redress that oversight, stating that legal protection “shall extend, and be construed, deemed, and taken to extend, to all such Pieces of Copper Money as shall be issued by Order of His Majesty, His Heirs and Successors, and as shall, by His or Their Royal Proclamation, be ordered to be deemed and taken as Current Money of this Realm.” This Act, and the issue of well-produced copper coins beginning in 1799 by Matthew Boulton, led to the decline of the age of the counterfeit copper in Britain and eventually the U.S.

413. [British Government]. COPPER COIN. Copy of a MEMORIAL of the Wholesale and Retail Traders, Manufacturers, Brewers, Distillers, and Licensed Victuallers, in London and Its Vicinity; Addressed to the Right Honourable The Committee of His Majesty's Council for COIN;—Also, Copy of a LETTER from JAMES CLARK, dated 18 October 1813, Addressed to the Lords of Council for COIN. Ordered, by The House of Commons, to be printed, 4 April 1814. Folio, self-covered. 3, (1) pages. Final page with short title and imprimatur. Spine neatly repaired with archival tape, else an exceptionally fine copy. $125
A remarkably nice copy of an intriguing petition to the King's Council for Coin. The merchants involved beg the government to address the “excessive quantity of Copper Coinage circulating in and about the Metropolis.” Noting that the new copper coinage introduced in 1799 had not entirely replaced the old amalgam of worn and counterfeit coppers that had plagued the late 18th century, but had instead merely been added to it, they state that those who dealt in small goods typically paid for in coppers were stuck with enormous numbers of them, and that purchases were unable to be made with them except at reduced rates. The petitioners ask the government to withdraw from circulation all old coppers, good or ill, an idea to which Clark lends his support. Suggests that the vast numbers of counterfeit halfpennies produced in the 18th century continued to cause problems in the 19th.

Carlotto on Vermont Coppers

414. Carlotto, Tony. The Copper Coins of Vermont and Those Bearing the Vermont Name. Chelsea, Michigan: C4, 1998. 4to., orange printed cloth. xiv, 218 pages. As new. $150
The first book to be published by the Colonial Coin Collectors Club (C4), Carlotto's welcome contribution to the study of these enigmatic and charming coins is in very high demand.

415. Chapman, S.H. Set of 7 reprint plates for the catalogue of the Dr. Henry Beckwith collection (April 27, 1923). 15 by 23 cm. Fine. $32
The B&B reprint plates, depicting what Adams calls “the finest collection of high condition cents of all time.” Though halftones, the plates are well-done, and help preserve the memory of this incredible collection.

416. Clain-Stefanelli, E.E. Numismatic Bibliography. Second edition. Munich: Battenberg, 1985. 12mo., quarter leatherette and printed linen. xxii, 1848 pages. New. $150
The most comprehensive numismatic bibliography available. While not claiming completion, Clain-Stefanelli's magnum opus covers more material in greater depth than any other work of its kind. Six separate indexes make navigating its 18,311 entries quite easy.

417. Cline, J.H. Standing Liberty Quarters. Revised edition. Palm Harbor, Florida: Cline, 1986. 8vo., card covers. 231, (1) pages. Near fine. $15
Covers the design, history and legislation of these popular coins, and provides advice for collectors.

418. Cunnally, John, Jonathan H. Kagan and Stephen K. Scher [curators]. Numismatics in the Age of Grolier: An Exhibition at the Grolier Club. 8vo., card covers. (8), 75, (1) pages. Fine. $25
An excellent work written to accompany the 2001 exhibition at the Grolier Club of important numismatic books and accompanying coins and medals.

419. Davis, Charles. American Numismatic Literature: An Annotated Survey of Auction Sales, 1980–1991. Lincoln: Quarterman, 1992. 4to., black cloth, gilt. xii, 218, (2) pages. New. $50
An essential reference, with erudite and astute commentary.

420. Davissons. Auction Thirteen, Part II. The Wayne Anderson Collection of British Provincial Trade Tokens of the 18th Century. Cold Spring, Minnesota, April 25, 2000. 4to., card covers. 47, (1) pages; 501–937 lots. Photocopy prices realized list. Fine. $75

Benjamin Rush (1745–1813) was a Philadelphia physician and scientist who also served as Treasurer of the U.S. Mint from 1797 to 1813. Rittenhouse (1732–1796), of course, was the first Director of the U.S. Mint, serving in that capacity until 1795 when poor health forced him to resign (Rittenhouse's position at the Mint is mentioned on pages 39–40). Both Rittenhouse and Rush were polymaths, and this rare eulogy is a wonderful testament to the relationship between these two extraordinary men. ### The Treasury Report on the Mint for 1800 and 1801

489. [United States Government]. Letter from the Secretary of the Treasury, Accompanying a Letter to Him from the Comptroller of the Treasury, and Sundry Statements, Marked A, B, C, D, E, Prepared in Pursuance of an Act, Intituled "An Act Establishing a Mint, and Regulating the Coins of the United States." (Washington): no publisher given, March 24, 1802. 8vo., self-covered. 10 pages, 5 folding tables. Unopened; some light browning and age stains. Disbound, but still stitched. Very good. $400
A significant and very rare early Mint document. While not the 1801 Mint Report (which was communicated to Congress by President Jefferson on Feb. 18, 1802), this reports on Mint activities since 1800 (in some cases, 1799), providing remarkably detailed data on Mint expenditures and the costs of the minting process. Not only includes most of the information in the Mint Report, but also comments on several matters pertaining to the use and holdings of precious metals. It consists of several elements: 1) A letter of transmittal from Secretary of the Treasury Albert Gallatin to the Speaker of the House of Representatives. 2) A letter from Comptroller of the Treasury Jno. Steele to Gallatin, transmitting the five tables. 3) Five tables lettered A to E, as follows: A) Statement of Appropriations Made by Law for the Mint Establishment for the Year 1800, with the Amount of Warrants Drawn by the Secretary of the Treasury on Said Appropriations; Statement of Appropriations Made by Law for the Payment of the Salaries of the Officers and Clerks of the Mint for the Year 1800; Statement of the Application of Monies Advanced from the Treasury of the United States for the Support of the Mint Establishment, from 1st January to the 31st of December, 1800. B) The same as A, but for 1801. C) Mint of the United States, for Copper Coinage, Shewing the Amount Purchased and Coined, from the 1st of January, 1800, to the 31st of December, 1801, and the Profit Arising Thereon, from the Establishment Thereof to the Latter Period. D) An Abstract Statement of the Settlement at the Treasury of the Accounts of the Treasurer of the Mint, from 1st July, 1799, to 31st December, 1801, Exhibiting the Balance in Bullion for Which He Remained Accountable on the Last Settlement; and Also the Deposits of Bullion, Value of Coins Paid, Allowance for Wastage, and Balance Remaining in the Hands of the Officers of the Mint, and in the Bank of the United States. E) Summary Statement Exhibiting the Value of Coins Made at the Mint, the Amount of Disbursements on Account of the Establishment; the Amount Allowed for Wastage; the Amount Retained of Deposits, and the Amount Gained on the Coinage of Copper. Most of the information usually sought in Mint Reports is to be found in this document, including the Mint's account of the number of each denomination struck (though this report lumps together the cents and half cents). Table D is massive in size, being a little over 108 cm (3.5 feet) long, and required the splicing together of sheets of paper to accommodate its printing. A fascinating and thorough early Mint document. Shaw & Shoemaker 3313.

The rare first, folio, printing of a significant early Mint document. The rare first printing of the 1814 Mint Report, preceding the octavo printing. Transmitted by President James Madison and written by Mint Director Robert Patterson. The production of copper, silver and gold coinage is carefully enumerated by quarter, with mintage figures given for half eagles, half dollars, dimes (retaining the old spelling) and cents on the attractive folding table. The supply of copper stock was clearly already an issue, as the Mint reports only striking cents during the fourth quarter of the year (and would famously go on to skip the following year altogether). Also included in the report is a table submitted by James Rush, Mint Treasurer, providing an abstract of Mint expenditures for the year. Shaw and Shoemaker 36328.

A rare document, being Horace Maynard's report on the suitability of Denver as the location of a branch mint. He concludes, "The great importance, not to say absolute justice, of providing this adventurous frontier population with the means of converting the proceeds of their mining labors into money ... is too obvious for argument." Also includes statements by Mint Director James Pollock, William P. Dole (Commissioner of Indian Affairs) and Secretary of the Treasury Salmon P. Chase.

A report by Mint Director H.R. Linderman in answer to a resolution of Congress of February 27, 1875 calling on President Grant to inquire into "the proper place for the establishment of a branch mint at some point in the Western States or in the Mississippi Valley." Linderman's report is quite detailed, and concludes that strong cases could be made for Indianapolis and St. Louis as branch mint locations. Information on a number of other Midwestern and Western cities is also given.

This document, dated April 10, 1899, was issued one day before the peace treaty signed between the U.S. and Spain went into effect, under which the U.S. gained possession of Guam, the Philippines and Puerto Rico (Cuba already being under its control). First Known Appearance of the Dollar Sign in Print, and Earliest Known Illustration of a U.S. Coin

500. Lee, Chauncey. The American Accomptant; Being a Plain, Practical and Systematic Compendium of Federal Arithmetic; in Three Parts: Designed for the Use of Schools, and Specially Calculated for the Commercial Meridian of the United States of America. Lansingburgh: Printed by William W. Wands, 1797. 12mo., modern green calf, sides panelled in blind, spine lettered and dated in gilt with four raised bands. Frontispiece engraving of coins in current usage in the U.S. by A. Reed; 297, (15) pages. Later pages with marginal staining to thumb, not affecting legibility. Professional tissue repair to frontispiece. Very good. $1750

This early American accounting and bookkeeping manual contains what is generally believed to be the first appearance in print of the dollar sign ($). It also includes, as a frontispiece, an engraving depicting a 1795 U.S. eagle, which Eric Newman has called "the earliest known illustration of a United States coin." Also included on the engraving are the Spanish pistole, French "guinea," British guinea, and Portuguese Johannes and half moidore. The book consists of a series of practical lessons for clerks. The dollar sign, which appears on page 56 for the first time and then throughout the volume, is a typographical approximation based upon the handwritten dollar sign used by some during the period. It resembles our own, but also differs from it. Much as a typographical ampersand is much more stylized than most of our handwritten ampersands, this initial attempt at a dollar sign in type is less a strict representation of the handwritten sign than an attempt to establish a similar sign for more formal treatment in type. A rare volume, of very high importance. For a fascinating overview of the history of the dollar sign, see Eric P. Newman's "The Dollar Sign: Its Written and Printed Origin" in America's Silver Dollars (New York: ANS, 1995). Evans 32366: "It is claimed that this work was the first to use the dollar mark, $." Howes L196 (aa): "First book to adopt the dollar sign."
